COUNSELING INFORMATION DISCLOSURE STATEMENT & CONSENT

Therapy is a relationship that works in part because of clearly defined rights and responsibilities held by each person. This framework helps to create the safety to take risks and the support to become empowered to change.

CONFIDENTIALITY

With the exception of certain instances below, True Self Counseling, LLC keeps absolute confidentiality of your therapy. If the need to disclose information arises, I will make an effort to inform you prior. Exceptions to confidentiality include: (1) Danger of harming yourself, (2) Intentions to harm another person, (2) Abuse or neglect of a child or vulnerable adult, and (4) Subpoena by a court of law.

E-mail communications with True Self Counseling are not guaranteed to be completely confidential, as emails are retained in internet service provider logs. While these logs are not typically viewed, they are available to the internet service provider.

RECORD-KEEPING

Records are kept for each session, noting topics, interventions, treatment goals, and progress. These records are maintained in a secure location. Under the provisions of the Health Care Information Act of 1992, you have the right to a copy of your file and the right to request that any errors be corrected. A copy of your file may be made available to another health care provider through your written request.

INSURANCE

I do not bill insurance companies. I can provide you with a statement of services to submit to your insurance company, but I cannot guarantee that they will provide reimbursement for counseling. Additionally, I will be required to provide a diagnostic code indicating a mental disorder, which will go on your permanent medical record.

TERMINATION

Typically, the decision to end therapy is made between client and therapist. Termination of therapy should be discussed at a regular session, rather than by phone. If I determine that your concerns warrant more specialized care, I may refer you to another professional. If violence is threatened, I reserve the right to terminate therapy services immediately. Referrals to other sources of care can be made available upon request.

RISKS & BENEFITS

Processing feelings that you have been avoiding for a long time may initially feel uncomfortable. Making positive changes in your life can be disruptive to existing relationships. It is important for you to consider whether these risks are worth the benefits of therapy. Most people who engage in therapy find it to be worthwhile.

OUT OF OFFICE

There are times when I am away from the office for extended periods of time. I will make my best effort to inform you in advance of such absences and provide contact information for another therapist upon request. If you experience an emergency when I am unavailable, please call 911 or go to the nearest hospital for assistance.

CLIENT RESPONSIBILITIES

Therapeutic progress is greatly determined by how much you invest in the process: you get out of it what you put into it. Your responsibilities as a client include arriving on time for scheduled sessions, being an active and committed participant, collaborating to plan your goals, keeping the counselor informed of progress, and making payment at the time of service.

Waiver of Medical and Psychiatric Consultation

Kansas law KSA 65-6404 (b) (3) states that my counselor is required to consult with my primary care physician or a psychiatrist to determine if there may be a medical condition or medication that may be causing or contributing to any signs of a mental disorder that s/he may have observed while working with me or my minor children (under 17 years).

By signing below, I am waiving the immediate medical consultation between the counselor and my physician. Should the need arise for a medical consultation in the future, I will be asked to sign a Release of Information to allow for such consultation.

In the event that my counselor addresses the need for further consultation, and I or my minor child(ren) do not currently have a primary care physician or psychiatrist, I acknowledge that my counselor may recommend that I seek medical consultation or provide me with appropriate referrals.

I understand that I have the right not to sign this waiver and that doing so provides my counselor the full requirement to make immediate consultation. I am also aware that this waiver will become part of my client record.
